Former Day Care Worker Pleads to Sexually Molesting Four Children

A 46-year-old day care worker pleaded no contest today to sexually molesting four children, three of whom attended the Los Angeles facility owned by his wife, the Los Angeles County District Attorney's Office announced.

Enrique Ramos returns to the Foltz Criminal Justice Center on Nov. 17 for sentencing before Los Angeles County Superior Court Judge Kathleen Kennedy in case BA408190. He faces 22 years in state prison and will be ordered to register as a sex offender for life.

Deputy District Attorney Hyunah Suh with the Sex Crimes Division said Ramos pleaded no contest to five counts of sexual molestation involving all four victims and admitted a special allegation that the molestations occurred while he was a day care worker.

Ramos admitted molesting two 5-year-old girls, a 5-year-old boy and an 8-year-old girl. The incidents occurred in 2008, 2009, 2012 and 2013. He was charged in February 2013 after the last victim told her mother, who contacted police.

The case was investigated by the Los Angeles Police Department.
